McCALL CENTRE

What is Trillium's The McCall Centre for Continuing Care?

The McCall Centre for Continuing Care, a joint venture between the previous Queensway General Hospital (now Trillium Health Centre) and Extendicare Canada Inc, admitted the first patient in November, 1984. The McCall Centre is named in honor of the late Mr. George St. Leger McCall, a former member of the Queensway Board of Directors and chairman of the Hospital Development Committee. He and his fellow board members developed an approach that brought together private enterprise (Extendicare) with a public funded organization (Trillium Health Centre, previously Queensway General Hospital) to help realize the reality of a Chronic Care Wing.

The McCall Centre is a fully accredited facility under Trillium Health Centre and it is located at The Toronto West Site. The McCall Centre is owned by Trillium Health Centre and managed by Extendicare. It is made up of 120 inpatient complex continuing care beds(Trillium has a total of 206 CCS Beds) sited in 3-40 bed nursing units. The majority of patients have been admitted directly from Trillium Health Centre acute care. The McCall Centre patients, which remain Trillium Patients, are made up of Chronic Care, Palliative Care, Orthopedic, and short stay patients awaiting Long Term Care placement.

The facility provides a full range of in-house professional services including medical, nursing, recreation, physiotherapy, chaplaincy, social services, as well as a dietary department, that prepares all patient meals, in house housekeeping services, and a laundry department that processes all bed linen and patient's personal clothing.
